Little helpers- big steps

Hope for Life Ltd

According to the World Health Organization, there are nearly 40 million blind people in the world. Like every other person on the planet, they need independence. And it can be safely provided by the presence of a specially trained dog.

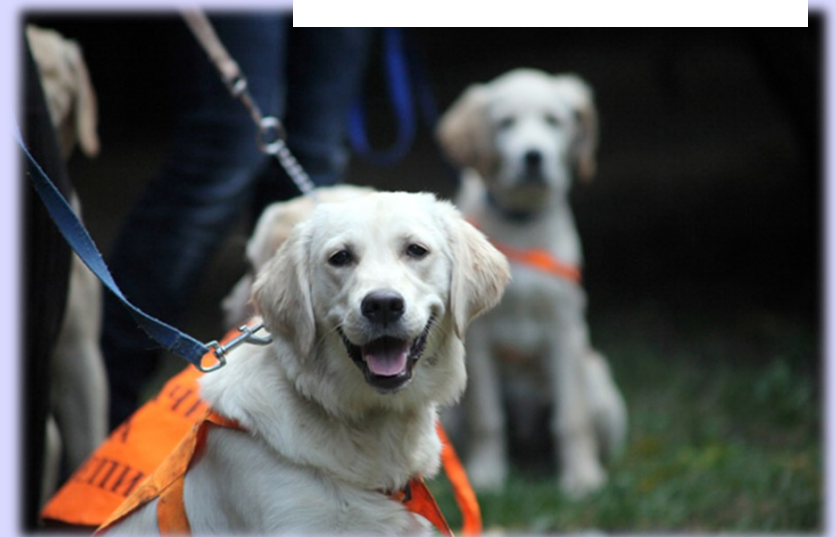

Guide dogs for people with blindness are specially trained and educated. They support people's lives, allow them to walk and travel, to be independent in a way that was not possible before. It is much easier to socialize and communicate with other people.

The challenge

- Finding a job and hard-to-reach urban environment are the most serious issues for blind people in Bulgaria ;
- Challenges related to the use of various services;
- Most pedestrian areas and bus stops still lack guide lines that show the safest area to drive;
- The lack of an accessible environment, the complicated procedure for providing free assistance and accessibility equipment for the disabled, low employment rates;
- There are 16,000 blind people in Bulgaria and over 200,000 in the Balkans.

As part of this, we'll complete a Health Risk Assessment to identify any issues that might affect your mobility. Once we are confident a guide dog would match your needs, and that you have sufficient independent orientation and mobility skills, you'll be progressed onto the guide dog assessment.

“Apply for a guide dog”

In order to apply for a guide dog, applicants must be legally blind and can demonstrate the need for a guide dog to help them remain safe and effective in their everyday travel. If you meet our criteria for having a guide dog, we'll arrange to visit you and tell you about “Hope for life” services in general and the different training options available to you.

Goals

•The organization's mission is to build a Balkan service dog training center for people with disabilities. We believe that with our coordinated and focused efforts and with the help of volunteers and donations, we will create a one-of-a-kind school for guide dogs and assistants for people with disabilities. With their special skills and endless love that are available 24/7, our certified guide dogs and assistants could improve the mobility and independence of people with severe vision impairment.

Become a GODFATHER
