Prevention

- National and municipal authorities share responsibility for the planning and implementation of prevention activities. A total of 27 municipal drug councils implement the national drug policy at the local level and are supported by prevention and information centres that collect and analyse data and inform the design and implementation of municipal programmes and strategies. Local committees on juvenile delinquency also play a role in the implementation of some of the objectives of the national prevention policy. To secure funding, programmes must comply with the European Drug Prevention Quality Standards.
