Panic yesterday invaded all of North America. Thousands of bees arrived in America, which no one knows where they are from and how long they will stay.

Now a day, all the inhabitants of the american continent, don't know what to do. The president, will make a meeting tomorrow at 12 o'clock to explain what will they do. The FBI, is now studying who and why putt this dangerous bees in this continent, they have some suspicious about who was it, but they don't have any idea about why he or she did it.

The dangerous bees

The firemans are evacuating all the people of the most affected towns and they are also spraying pesticides to put away this strang bees but there's a big problem with the animalist because they don't want to put in danger this spice of bees because is important for the environment and investigation another actual problem called Coronavirus .

We will keep you updated on the news.
