COLLECT MOMENTS

NEWSPAPER

Our project is a photography project using web 2.0 tools. Our students will work together (in mixed teams) to prepare digital products of the project using online meetings. Taking photos will help us to see our students' perspectives. They will take some photos according to the chosen topics. Using those photos, we will create different final products. It will be fun and educative. Our students will also learn about e-safety, digital citizenship and cyber bullying.

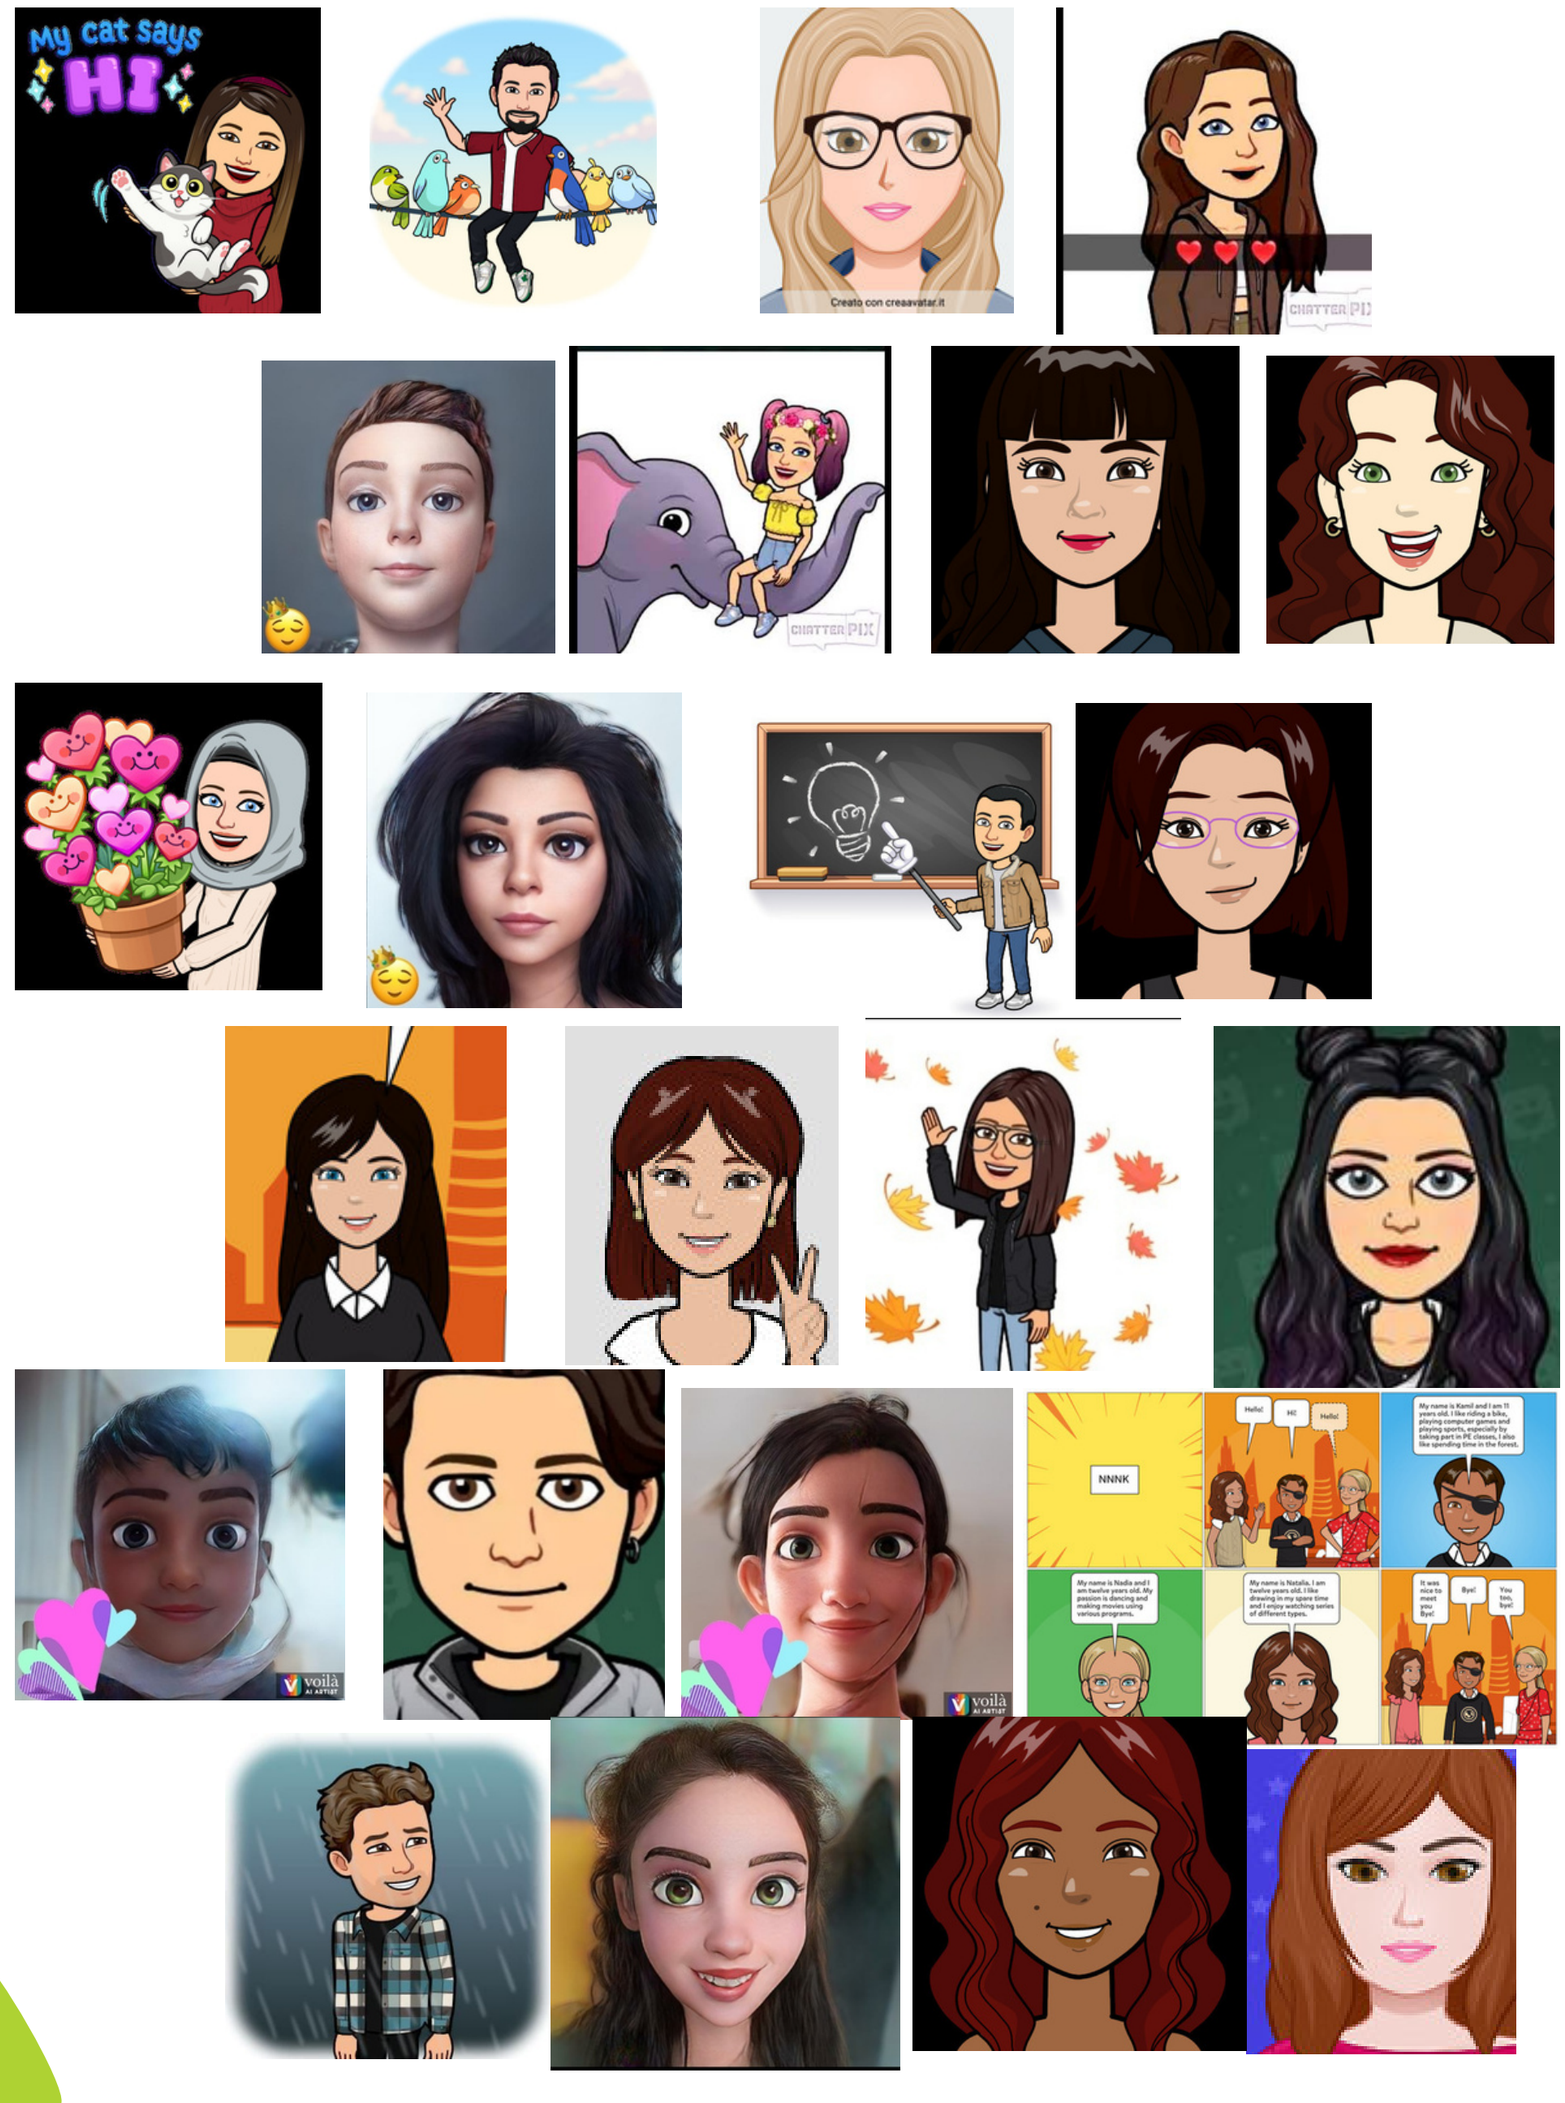
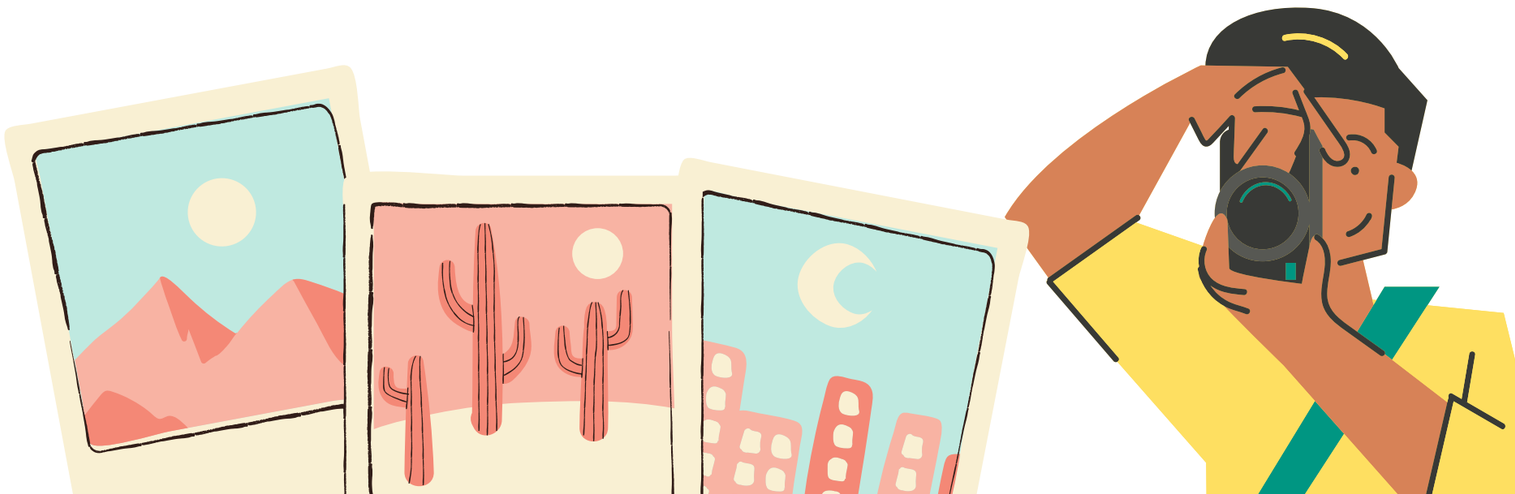
PROJECT

We started our project with student selection and parental permissions. We ensured that they were informed about cyber security and took all precautions regarding the protection of personal data. We applied a pre-test to our students and determined their level of readiness for the project. We have uploaded information about schools, teachers and students on the Twinspace page.After our preliminary preparations for the project, we realized the Cody Roby application with our partners as part of the codeweek activities. In this way, our students have carried out an activity that will improve their fun and cognitive aspects simultaneously.





In addition, our students came together online and prepared an acrostic created by the initials of our project. Then, with the Wordart event, they made great designs for our project. They had the opportunity to get to know each other closely in the chatroom.

Our first students' meeting was great. We introduced ourselves, played games, wrote an acrostic poem, prepared an animal poster and word cloud together. All activities prepared collaboratively. Each school (at least one student from each school) added something to these products.

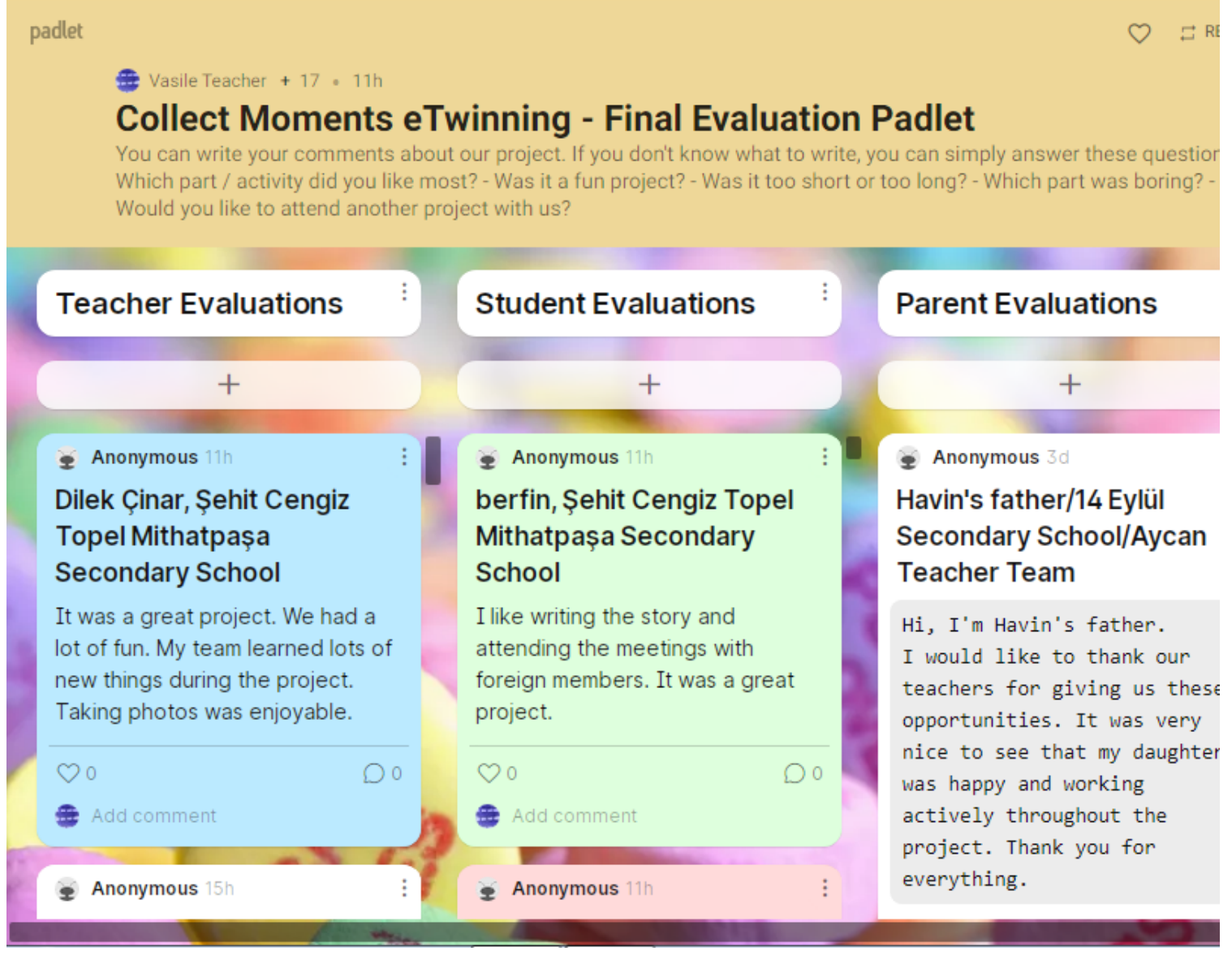
EVALUATION



As we approached the end of our project, we received the opinions of all our teachers, students and parents. We've uploaded the reviews to Padlet. Each teacher and student answered the post-tests in their own way. Data is available on the Twinspace page. We also have an exhibition that we have prepared together with our partners, where all our works are exhibited.
