INFO PROJET

A mascot is sent by a class to conduct an investigation of students from another country (icebreaker activity in the form of games learning apps), then widens his scope to the class space, the city and the country. Finally, the students will prepare together during a "live event" the international event "La Grande Lessive®", which is an ephemeral exhibition of drawings around the world on a theme common to all. All surveys and reports in different countries will be highlighted in a digital magazine.

FRANCE

We went to the library. We did a reading of a tale of Turkish origin: Mister Corbeau. Then we did an art activity called marbled paint. Karagöz told us that it was a well-known Turkish art. Since chemicals can not be used, shaving foam has been used.

Marble painting for children

MARBLE PAINTING, how? You have to put shaving foam in a container and paint all colors. Then, with a spatula, mix gently while making waves. Trim the paper and scrape it. Finally, let it dry. Colors are mixing and it is beautiful!

FRANCE

An old raven shows recognition to a shepherd, when the latter takes away a thorn from his paw. After this gesture, the bird will allow the shepherd to pursue his dreams: for the thorn, a candle; for the candle, a cow, for the cow ... Turkish folk tale, enriched in its structure with elements of other cultures.

Nice meeting
in college

nice meeting!

Friday, we went to college to meet UPEAA students. They are children who left their country because they did not have enough to eat or because of the war. They might die. They are older than us, they are between 15 and 17 years old and they live in Wassy.

They came here to take refuge and learn our language and a job to work later.

In their country, It is difficult to find a doctor and some of them have to work hard to get enough money to eat each day (even for very young children). It is difficult for them to leave their family and their country, but they are happy to be here and alive.

Nice meeting!

Each in turn, they presented their countries. It was difficult for them because they have not spoken French for a long time. They did well. To check that we listened well, they had prepared a quiz. In addition, the college gave us a pen, a notebook and a snack. We thought a lot, we had fun and they helped us understand their countries. Thanks to this meeting, we enriched each other with our differences. We decided to present their countries in the magazine, because if they were born elsewhere, today, they live in France. We are very proud to do so.

Nice meeting!

MALI

green = hope, yellow = gold from the basement, red = blood of warriors

To the north, it is desert the south is a little more humid. Between the two is the Sahel
