

Christmas is so special that it is celebrated in almost every country in the world. There are only a few countries that do not celebrate it.

Depending on the country, we can see different traditions and we are going to show you the ones of Spain.

SPAIN

Did you know that in Spain children get the presents on January the 6th from the Three Wise Men?

Here, in the Canary Islands, we also have the tradition of visiting the nativity scene that is shown in different places of the islands.

There is one that is famous, because it is made of sand. You can see it in Las Canteras Beach.

Talking about Las Canteras Beach and since we have a nice weather here, we usually celebrate the New Year at the beach with fireworks.

One of the typical dishes that we eat here, is the roscón de Reyes.

The curiosity of this plate is that inside there are some small figures of the nativity scene, as well as a bean. When eating this plate, if you find the bean in your portion, that means you should pay the Roscón.

At Pepe Dámaso School, we usually decorate the corridors and classes with Christmas ornaments. We also make a big Christmas tree that we place in the entrance of the School. All the ornaments of the tree are made by students with the help of their families, trying to use recycling materials.

Finally, we usually make a theatre play for Christmas. This year we have performed "A Christmas carol", a popular story written by Charles Dickens.

Some of our traditions will be the same as in your country and some others will be different. However, what we all have in common, is that At Christmas we like spending time with the people that we love. We wish you a sweet and lovely Christmas!
