The scientific high school "S. Cannizzaro ", the first scientific high school in Palermo, was born in 1923, when the Royal Decree-Law of 6 May, rearranging secondary education in Italy, instituted this course of study. The first seat of the high school, named after the patriot and scientist from Palermo Stanislao Cannizzaro, was an apartment in Piazza Bellini. In 1927 it moved to the premises of Via Montevergini, which were then partly occupied by the Royal Technical Institute "F.Parlatore". Since 1955 it has been located in the current headquarters in via Generale Arimondi.
