The Danish Viking Empire

The country of Denmark dates back to the 8th century.

During the reign of Knute the Great, The danish viking empire included.

- ▶ Norway, who remained Danish until 1814
- ▶ Parts of Sweden and most of Britain

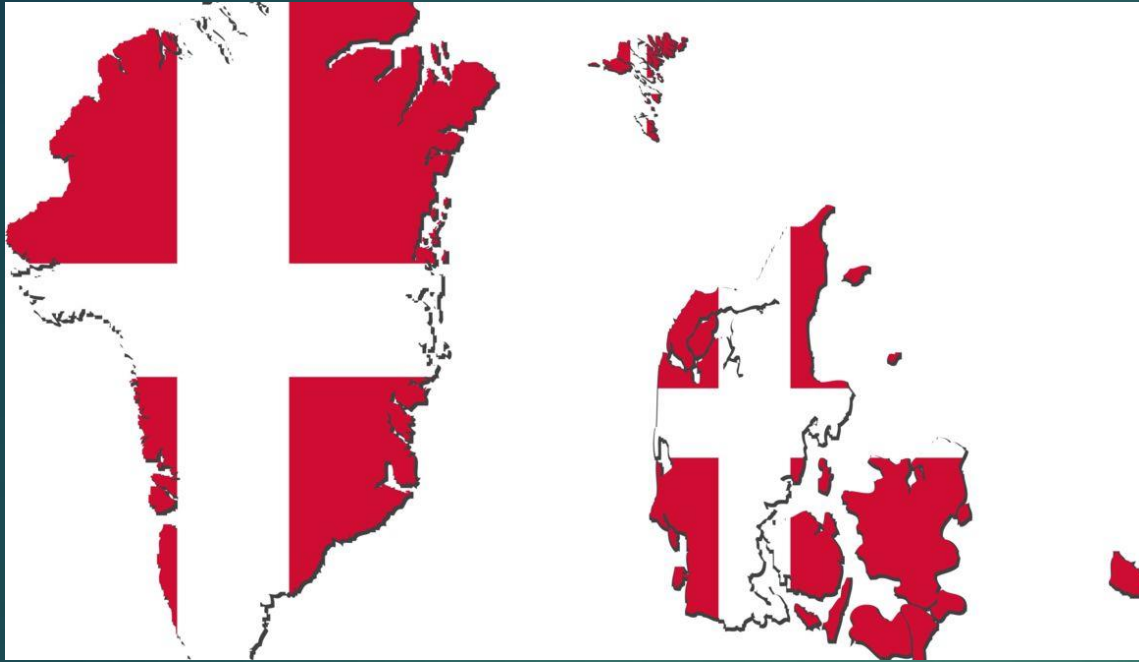

The Danish monarchy has existed for more than 1000 years.
and is among the oldest royal houses in the world.

The first known danish king was Gorm the Old who died 958 A.D.
He was mentioned first on the ancient stones at Jelling.

The current Monarc is Her Majesty Queen Margrethe II.
Here she is standing next to her late husband Prince Henrik, and her two sons with their Wifes.

The unity of the Realm

The Faroe Islands and Greenland have been under the reign of the Crown of Denmark since 1397. However, due to their separate historical and cultural identities, these parts of the Realm now have an extensive type of self-government.

Constitutional monarchy

After the first Schleswig War, Danish citizens demanded that the King removed his government and that a free constitution would be written.

In 1849 the first democracy constitution of Denmark was signed.

Varde – The Community Shield

- ❖ Varde has 13,951 inhabitants and is 15 km north of Esbjerg (Denmark's 5th largest city)
- ❖ Surrounded by beautiful nature means a lot to the citizens of Varde, and we often use the motto "We in nature", which means, we are a part of nature
- ❖ The city is located at Varde Å, and the town center is characterized as an old market town
- ❖ The age of Varde is not known exactly, but the year 1107 is mentioned in written sources, but unfortunately, its true origin is lost in the early part of the Middle Ages
