

The Autumn Flower Festival - Romania

Every year, at the beginning of autumn, in our home town, Braila (Romania), is celebrated The Autumn Flower Festival.

It is a very popular festival because many people love autumn flowers. It has a twin sister, The Spring Flower Festival. The residents of Braila go out for the weekend at the festival to relax and admire the flowers or to buy them. The festival is held in the Monument Park, as well as in other promenade places, where thousands of stalls are loaded with flowers of different colours and sizes.

Alongside flower exhibitions, there are thematic theatrical representations, which are always received with much interest and applause. Thousands of locals visit the exhibition to admire and buy flowers and to enjoy the artistic moments prepared by the City Hall.

The flower festival not only delights our sight and smell through a variety of colours and fragrances, but also our taste buds, since there are food stalls all over the place, which satisfy even the most exigent people.

The stars of the artistic representations are always those offered by the Theater “Masca”. Entitled “the shouts of Paris”, the show presented at the current edition of the flower festival brought to the public a lot of picturesque characters from the Paris of the past centuries. The lace, the loundress, the seller of ribbons, the seller of eggs or the dressmaker showed their mimicry and movements as the most experienced actors do it.

Living floral statues also enchant the visitors with their grace, colours and perfumes.

The artistic programs also include representations from the local music and dance schools.

As for the Festival stars, the autumn flowers, in the main role, are, as expected, the chrysanthemums. The producers and traders compete among themselves, by presenting at the exhibition for sale the most beautiful species.
