

N stands for nervous as you are so, principally during the tests

I stands for ignorant as you may look like when meeting new people

C stands for color, your favorites are blue and red

O stands for opinionative because you're interested in a lot of things so you always have something to say about everything

L stands for Louis De Funès, because you know all his films by heart

A stands for athlete because you like to play table tennis

S stands for success because you are really ambitious