Once upon a time,

There was a Mommy and Daddy water molecule; who just had a baby molecule named Molly. She was born in the clouds, and this was called Condensation. She lived there until she got too big!

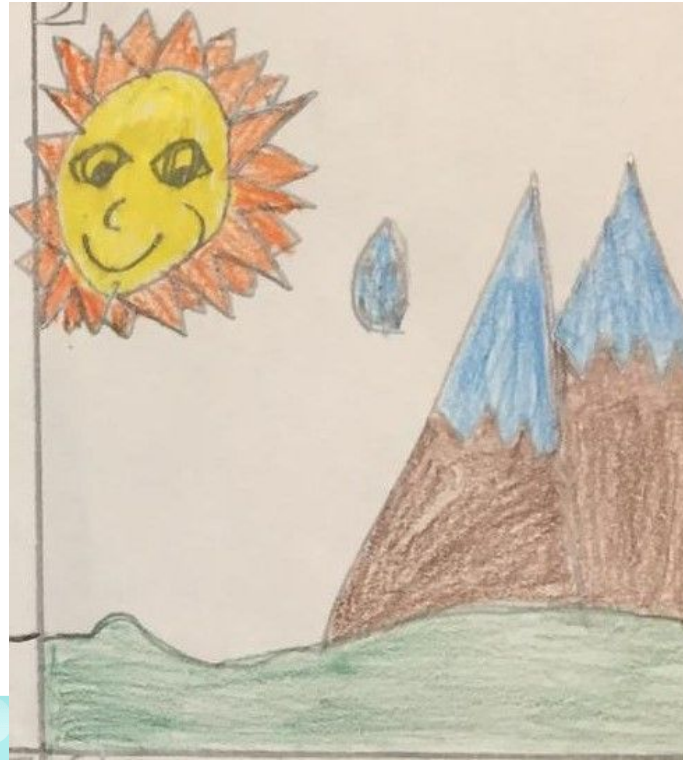

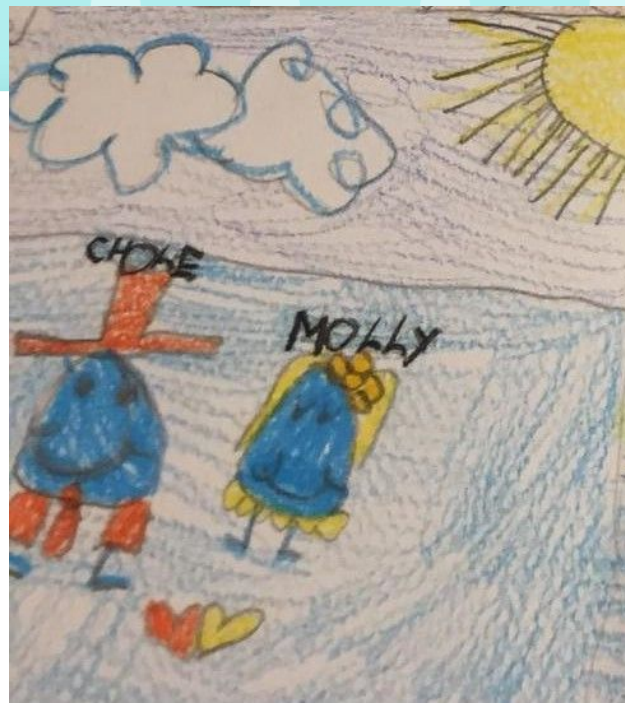

Then one night...

Molly was very alarmed when she fell through the clouds. Far away from her home. The only thing that brought her comfort was seeing all the other molecules just like her. This is called Precipitation.

Then one day

The sun starts to shine brightly; and warms up the Mt. Top. She and her friends begin to melt. An roll down the side of the hill; also known as Surface run off. Into a nearby lake.

While in the lake she falls in love with another water molecule name Chole. And decide they would evaporate together; and return back to Molly's home

Soon...

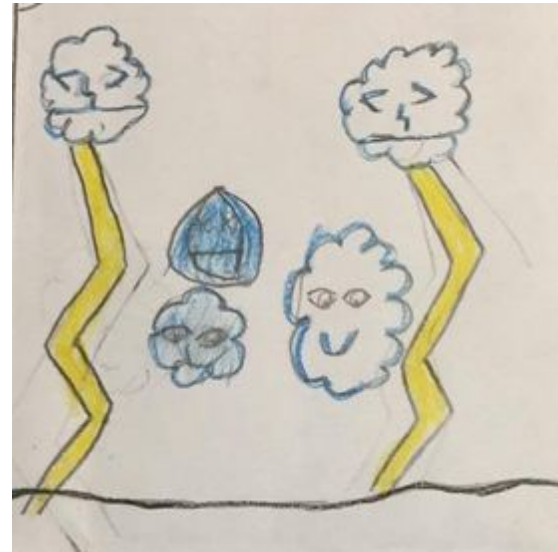

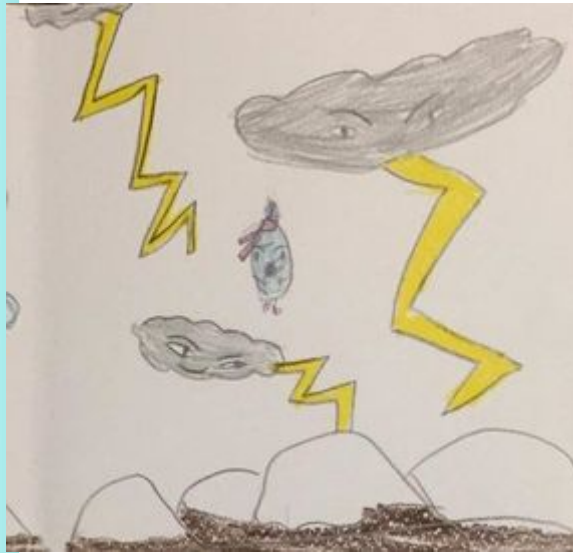

They had their own bundle of molecules named Huey. He stayed in the clouds condensation with Molly and Chole until he got to big.

Until one night.....

Suddenly the wind began to blow .The wheather has become cold.The molecule feel from the sky .
